Terry Johnson is the senior minister of the Independent Presbyterian Church in Savannah, Georgia, which he has served since 1987.

ENDORSEMENTS

The Beatitudes have found, in Terry Johnson, the expositor we have all been waiting for, and they become, in his hands, a statement of Christian ethics as profound as it is readable. He is as faithful in bruising as in uplifting, but, being a true pastor, even his bruises have a velvet and healing touch.

Alec Motyer
(1924-2016) Well-known Bible expositor and commentary writer

"...a clarion call to discipleship in depth."

J. I. Packer
(1926–2020), Board of Governors' Professor of Theology, Regent College, Vancouver, Canada

"...a challenge to Christian counter-culture on both sides of the Atlantic."

Philip H. Hacking

"He explains and applies them with a freshness that must surely fire every reader with the passion for the true godliness that is so hard to find these days, yet which is so vital to genuine Christian living."

Mark Johnston
Editor, Banner of Truth Magazine
