It's about the message

Our calling is to share the incredible message of the gospel and help people grow in their faith through the power of books.

In dependence upon God, we have stayed true to this mission since our beginnings in the 1970s, spreading the good news of Jesus Christ far and wide. We publish books which point people towards Jesus and help them to develop a Christ-like maturity, equipped for life, work, ministry and mission.

Our shelves are stocked with books for every age group, from little ones to adults, and they reach readers all over the world, with translations in over 70 languages.

Greater Sins, Greater Grace

Degrees of Sin and the Depths of Divine Forgiveness

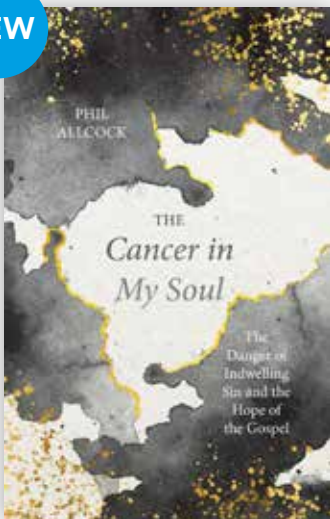

Jeff Moore

Jeff Moore confronts a question many Christians assume is settled: Are all sins equal? With pastoral clarity and rigorous scholarship, Moore demonstrates from Scripture that while all sin brings guilt before God, the Bible itself distinguishes degrees of sin—and magnifies the depth of divine grace that meets even the gravest offenses.

Rooted in careful exegesis of both the Old and New Testaments, this book challenges popular evangelical slogans with a whole-Bible theology of sin, judgment, and forgiveness. Moore guides readers through difficult moral terrain, showing why certain sins strike more directly at God's created order—and why the gospel still offers hope to those who repent.

Biblical Church Planting

Joel Busby and Kyle McClellan

Biblical Church Planting offers a concise, theologically rich vision for starting and sustaining healthy churches. Drawing from real experience, the authors emphasize that the church is God's work—not ours. This practical guide equips leaders to think biblically, serve faithfully, and engage their communities with wisdom, helping build churches that endure and reflect God's eternal purposes.

- Root your ministry in God's design, not human strategy.
- Follow a clear framework: minister, ministry, mission, mechanics.
- Gain insight from real church planting successes and failures.
- Focus on faithfulness over quick growth.

Clothed with Confidence How the Imputation of Christ's Righteousness Transforms the Christian Life

Morgan Renew

In Clothed with Confidence, Morgan Renew shows how the doctrine of imputation transforms the Christian life. More than forgiveness, believers are clothed in Christ's perfect righteousness and united to his resurrection life. With biblical depth and pastoral warmth, this book connects justification to everyday struggles like guilt, fear, prayer, obedience, and suffering. Accessible and deeply encouraging, it offers weary Christians fresh assurance, hope, and joy rooted in the finished work of Christ.

Nothing but Christ

Escaping the Fake Christianity We All Believe

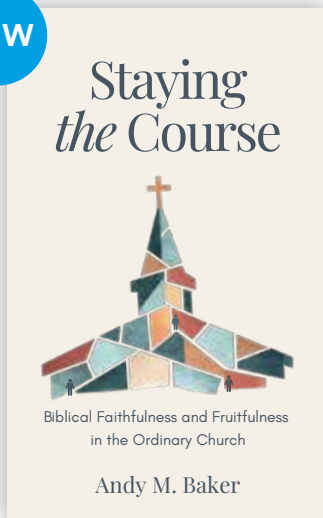

Robert D. Golding

What if much of what we call “Christianity” isn’t Christianity at all—but a comfortable substitute that leaves us spiritually empty?

In Nothing but Christ, Robert D. Golding delivers a bracing, unapologetic call back to the heart of the Christian faith. With theological depth, pastoral urgency, and piercing honesty, this book confronts the ways modern believers replace Christ with success, moderation, self-improvement, and religious performance. Golding argues that when Christ is not everything, everything else becomes meaningless—and the Church loses its power.

Directive Biblical Counseling Foundational Principles for Counseling Yourself and Others

Jonathan Moorhead

Directive Biblical Counseling equips everyday Christians to counsel themselves—and others—with confidence, structure, and biblical faithfulness. Rather than offering vague encouragement or overwhelming theory, Jonathan Moorhead presents a clear, six-session framework grounded in timeless theological priorities. This book removes the intimidation factor from counseling by showing you what to address, when to address it, and why it matters—no advanced degree required.

Designed for pastors, lay leaders, parents, and believers who want to help hurting people wisely, this practical guide demonstrates how the same core biblical truths apply to a wide range of struggles, from marriage conflict and addiction to fear, anger, and prolonged sadness. Each session focuses on one central theme, reinforced through Scripture, real-life case studies, sample counseling dialogues, and actionable homework.

Our Hope Is In Help

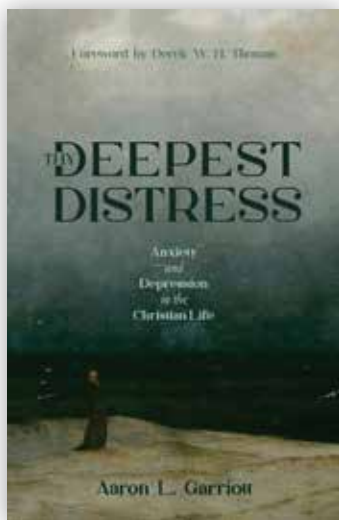

What Keeps Us from Asking for Help and How We Live by Leaning on God's Word

Pierce Taylor Hibbs

In a culture obsessed with self-reliance, Pierce Taylor Hibbs reveals a profound truth: our greatest strength lies not in standing alone, but in learning to lean. Drawing from biblical narratives and personal insights, Our Hope Is in Help exposes autonomy as the dangerous ghost haunting modern life—the stubborn belief that we can “go it alone.”

Through the stories of Abraham's deception, Moses' rebellion, and David's tragic fall, Hibbs unveils autonomy's destructive anatomy. But this isn't a book about human failure—it's about divine rescue. Jesus Christ himself shows us what true strength looks like: complete dependence on the Father. Through his life, death, and resurrection, Christ defeats our autonomous pride and sends the Holy Spirit as our Helper. Now we can discover the joy of asking for help.

Cara Ray

Are you longing for a deeper, more joyful relationship with God—one that feels less like a duty and more like a delight? This book offers an invitation to experience spiritual rest, renewal, and intimacy with God, no matter your season of life.

In this inspiring and practical book, Cara Ray explores the ancient concept of otium sanctum—holy leisure—a mindset that transforms your daily quiet time from a checklist into a soul-nourishing encounter with God. Drawing from biblical wisdom, personal stories, and the lives of saints past and present, Ray guides readers through the hidden, familiar, hard, and fruitful places of life, showing how God meets us in every moment.

The Worship of the Reformed Church Biblical, Theological, Historical and Practical Considerations

Terry L. Johnson

Esteemed pastor and scholar Terry L. Johnson presents a comprehensive, compelling case for recovering the biblical, theological, and historical foundations of Reformed worship in our contemporary age. With clarity and conviction, Johnson demonstrates how Scripture-saturated, God-centered, gospel-structured worship not only shaped centuries of Christian piety but remains essential for forming faithful, mature disciples today.

Drawing from the Reformers, the church fathers, and modern scholarship, Johnson explores every aspect of corporate worship – reading, preaching, praying, singing, and the administration of the sacraments – showing how each element serves as a vital means of grace. He also offers practical guidance for pastors, elders, and congregations seeking to implement historic Reformed patterns with excellence, reverence, and pastoral wisdom.

Mere Complementarianism Male and Female in the Image of God Denny Burk

A clear, compelling, and timely guide to understanding God's good design for men and women. Drawing from Scripture, natural law, and the historic Christian tradition, Burk cuts through confusion to present a faithful, accessible vision of biblical complementarianism—one that is rooted in creation, clarified in Scripture, and essential for a flourishing church and home.

With cultural debates intensifying and misconceptions on every side, this book offers clarity where many feel only tension. Burk distills decades of theological reflection into a “mere” complementarianism anchored in the Danvers Statement, providing a stable foundation for Christians navigating questions of gender, identity, marriage, and church leadership.

The Advent of Life Approaching Christmas with the Church Fathers

Tim Chester

This beautifully crafted devotional invites you to journey through the season of Advent guided by the voices of early Christian leaders – those who shaped the foundations of our faith and continue to inspire believers today.

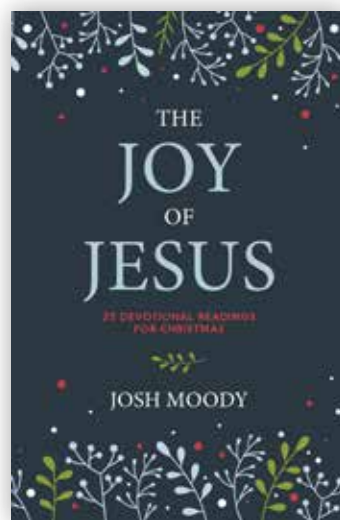

Drawing from the profound writings of the second to fifth centuries, Chester presents daily readings that illuminate the mystery and majesty of Christ's incarnation. Each reflection features a carefully selected passage from a Church Father – such as Augustine, Athanasius, Gregory of Nazianzus, and others – paired with insightful commentary and practical prayers. These ancient voices speak with clarity and warmth, offering fresh perspectives that challenge modern assumptions and rekindle your awe for the miracle of Christmas.

Creation is Fallen

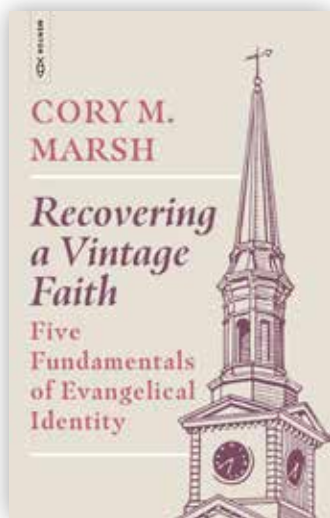

The Curse, Animal Suffering, and the Problem of Natural Evil

Ken P. Coulson

In this compelling and meticulously researched work, Coulson tackles the age-old dilemma: How can a good and omnipotent God allow such widespread suffering and death in the natural world?

Drawing from both Scripture and science, Coulson examines the historical and theological roots of animal suffering, predation, and natural disasters. He traces the debate from the Church Fathers through to modern creationist and evolutionary thought, critically engaging with the most influential theodicies and defenses. With vivid real-world examples—from the parasitic cuckoo bird to the chilling realities of predation and extinction—Coulson brings the problem of natural evil into sharp focus.

Partnership with Priority Spurgeon on the Mission of the Church John Sybert

What should the church prioritize in its mission—gospel proclamation or social action? In Partnership with Priority, John Sybert turns to Charles Haddon Spurgeon to answer one of the most pressing questions facing the modern church.

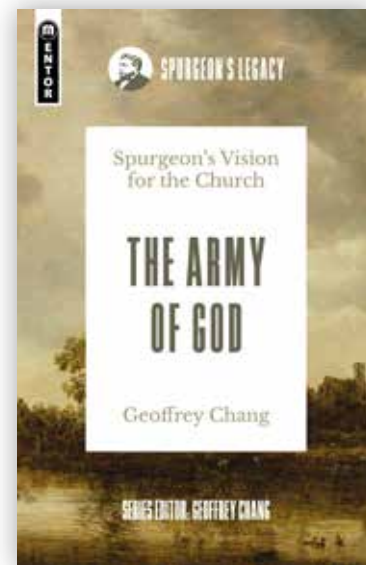

Drawing deeply from Spurgeon's sermons, institutions, and vast ministry output, this book reveals a missiology that is both compassionate and convictional. Spurgeon refused to pit word against deed. Instead, he championed a dynamic partnership between gospel proclamation and mercy ministry—while insisting that the preaching of Christ must always remain primary.

Christ and the Covenant of Grace

J. V. Fesko

J. V. Fesko traces the covenant of grace from Eden to eternity, revealing how Scripture's grand narrative centers on Christ and God's redeeming purposes for his people. Combining biblical exegesis, historical theology, and doctrinal reflection, this volume explores the unity of God's saving work across redemptive history and the beauty of communion with the triune God. Part of the Divine Covenants series, it stands alongside Adam and the Covenant of Works and The Trinity and the Covenant of Redemption.

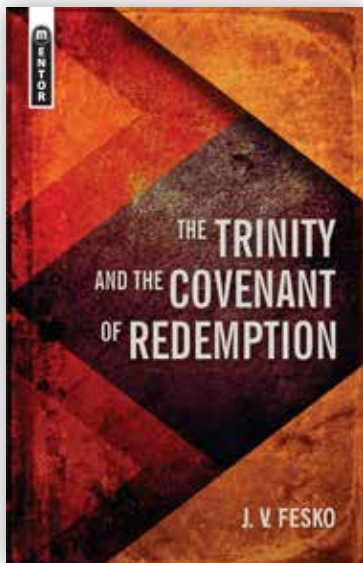

Inside you'll discover:

The covenant of grace across Scripture.

Key theological debates and covenant traditions.

Christ's role in redemption and covenant communion.
