

BOOK ANNOUNCEMENT

The Big Ten: Critical Questions Answered is a Christian apologetics series which addresses ten commonly asked questions about God, the Bible, and Christianity. Each book, while easy to read, is challenging and thought-provoking, dealing with subjects ranging from hell to science. A good read whatever your present opinions.

Why Should I Believe Christianity?

“In this book, believers will find a compelling defense of the Christian worldview and the resources necessary to stand firm in a faithless age.”

R. Albert Mohler, President, The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary

“... This is one of the finest resources available for presenting the rationale of the Christian faith to an unbelieving reader.”

John M. Frame, Reformed Theological Seminary

“... writes with the mind of a scholar but the clarity and tone of a letter to a dear friend.”

Brian Morley, Professor of Philosophy and Apologetics, The Masters College, Santa Clarita, California

“From now on, when skeptics ask, 'Where in the world has Christianity done any good,' we have a powerful and convincing reply ... Bill debunks myths and blows the dust off of little known historical facts about the impact of the Gospel in a hurting world ... a remarkable book.”

Joni Eareckson Tada, Activist for the disabled and author of Tell Me the Promises, and other classics.

“He does not hesitate to confront the difficult questions that challenge our faith in times of doubt while also giving his readers a vision of a society transformed by Christian leadership.”

Al Sikes, Former Chairman, FCC and author of Culture Leads, Leaders Follow
