

HELLO BIBLE DETECTIVES!

It's Harry and Jess again with our trusty companion Click the Mouse. Are you familiar with the game of noughts and crosses? It's great fun. It's a quiz that anyone can play and enjoy. Here are the rules:

What you need:

1. Two teams and one quiz master.
2. A different set of markers for each team. (See the noughts and crosses on page 45.)
3. A grid for level A, B or C (See pages 4, 5 and 62)
4. A score sheet. Put the Team names at the top. Keep a record of the games each team wins and their bonus points.
5. Throw a dice to decide which team starts.

Quiz instructions:

1. Each quiz is either Level A, Level B or Level C. Level A is the easiest level and Level C is the hardest.
2. At each turn the team will choose a topic. If they answer the question correctly they put their marker over that topic on the grid.
3. The aim of the game is to get a line of three topics either vertically, horizontally or diagonally.
4. If a team answers a question without resorting to using multiple choice they get a bonus point and put their marker on the correct square. If they use the multiple choice they don't get a bonus point but still put their marker on the correct square. If the answer is wrong the square is left blank for the next time.
5. Each time a team wins a game they get a star. (See page 45)
6. Each time a team wins 9 bonus points they get a star. (See page 45)
7. At the end of the quiz tournament the team with the most stars is the winner.
8. Beside each team name a record should be kept of the games each team wins and their bonus points.

Watch out: When a team is aiming for three in a row the other team may be able to block them off by putting their marker over one of the squares the other team needs to complete that row. If this happens then the team who has been blocked off will have to come up with another way to get three in a row.

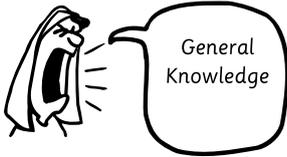

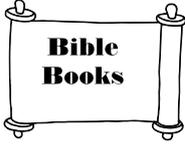

Other ideas: Feel free to use different formats of quiz to add interest and excitement. Noughts and Crosses is just one way of doing this. Here's another idea: You could have a buzzer round by using a bucket and ball. The first team to get a ball into a bucket from a certain distance gets to answer the question.

Bible references: These are beside each question. Read these if you need to check the answer or want to find out more after the quiz.

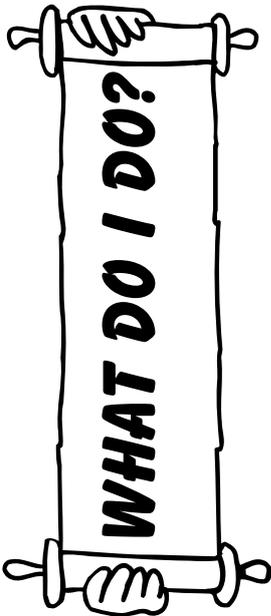

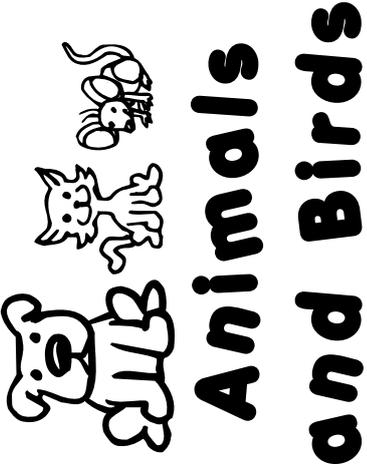

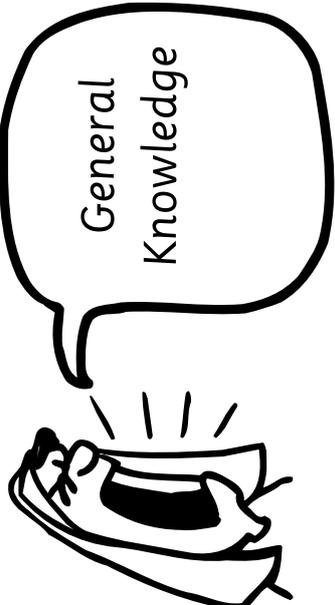

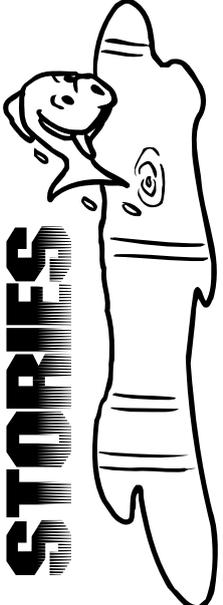

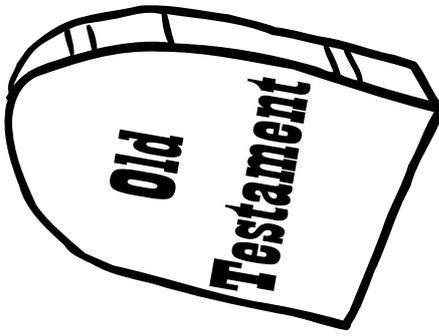

Reproducible: Photocopy grids from the visual aids pages. These pages are on page 4-5 and page 62, extra visual aids are available on page 63. Team markers are on page 45 - but just as you can get the teams to decide their own team names you can get your teams to design their own logos. All pictures throughout this book are free for photocopying.

TEACHER SPOT

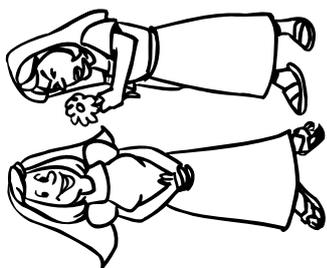

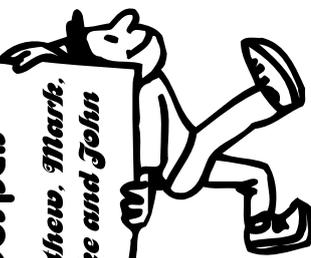

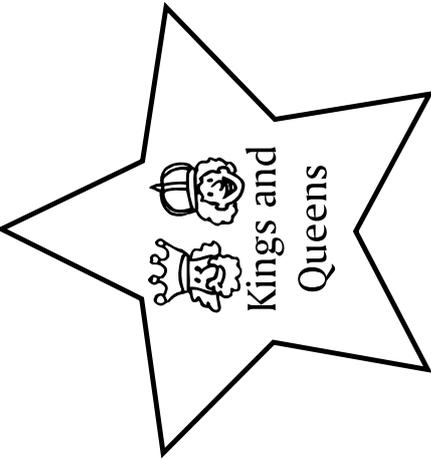

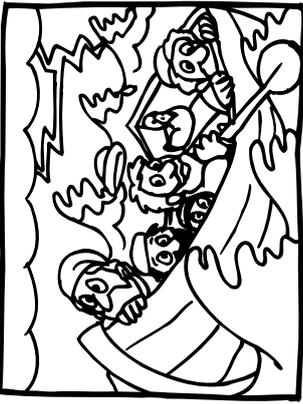

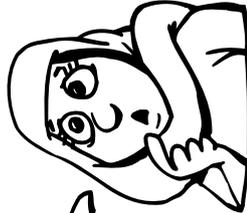

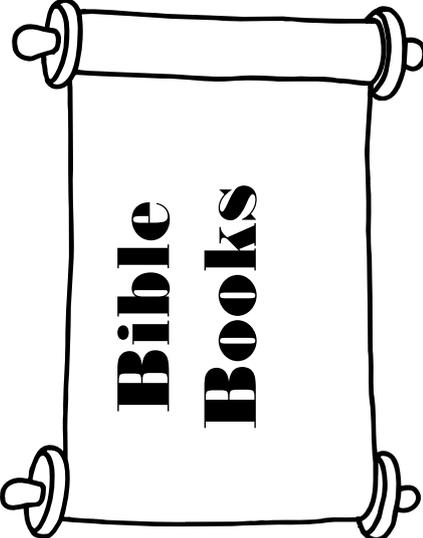

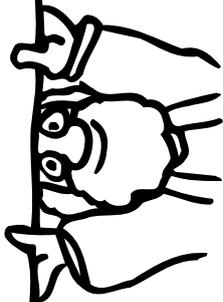

This book helps a wide range of ages and abilities to remember the truths of the Bible. It is divided into three sections and the game is played in teams. Multiple-choice answers reduce the risk of embarrassment for those with less Bible knowledge. Choose the section that matches the abilities of the team members - A being the easiest and C the hardest. This format can be helpful for Sunday schools, youth groups, or for use within the family. Divide the children into two teams, mixing those with greater and lesser degrees of Bible knowledge. Decide whether the children will answer questions individually within their teams or as a joint effort.
