DESCRIPTION

Ask. Seek. Knock. A.S.K. addresses questions gathered from teenagers in fifteen countries in five different continents. All of them are real questions from real teenagers.

52 short chapters. Each contains a question, a Bible passage, a Bible verse, a discussion, something to consider, recommended further reading and a prayer.

These answers may lead to more questions which is fine – but the main aim of this book is that you, the reader, come to see and know better the One who is the Answer, Jesus Christ.

ENDORSEMENTS

This marvelous volume is a readable, accessible compendium of many of the questions we've always had but had not dared ask. David Robertson, with his candid, thoroughly biblical, winsome approach, reassures us that there are reasonable and convincing answers to each of them. I wish I had been given a book like this when I was a young Christian. I highly recommend it not only for teens but for all ages.

Professor of Apologetics (retired), Westminster Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

A.S.K. answers common questions asked by average teenagers from around the world. Mr Robertson candidly answers hot button questions that teens struggle with including racism, same sex marriage, and gender identity disorder. This is a helpful book that constantly points to the Bible as a lifeline on how to cope with peers, prejudice, and social media.

A high school freshman from the United States who loves music and playing instruments, especially piano!

If you're a teenager trying to follow Jesus it is more than likely that you've asked most of the 52 question that David Robertson tries to answer. These are real questions and David doesn't fudge the answers. Like a friend of mine who worked with young people, he doesn't think he is the fount of all knowledge so, whatever the question, he begins by finding a Bible passage that speaks to the issue and roots his answer there. This is not just an AMA (ask me anything) session. This is; what does God's word have to say? Then when he gives his answer he asks us to pray. That's is because we're not dealing with theoretical or academic concepts. These questions are real and affect our lives. They turn us to God in worship and thanks and encourage us to bring our concerns to him.

David Robertson is real. He talks about his own experience and the struggles he has gone through. And he is never boring; always getting to the point and not confusing us with jargon. It's not going to give you easy answers but they are satisfying.

You can dip into this book or read it through. If you're serious about following Jesus it will not only strengthen your faith but it
