Faith is matter of intellect, not just emotion

By highly regarded theologian

Foreword by Sinclair Ferguson

AUTHOR

Donald Macleod (1940–2023) was the Principal of the Free Church of Scotland College, Edinburgh until 2010. Regarded as one of Britain's most prominent theologians he wrote extensively on a wide range of issues.

ENDORSEMENTS

…he not only immediately disarms you but also intrigues you enough to encourage you to want to read on. You will then be invited to think patiently and clearly with him about what philosophers have often thought is the greatest and most fundamental question of all, namely why there is something and not nothing.

Sinclair B. Ferguson
Chancellor's Professor of Systematic Theology, Reformed Theological Seminary

Every Christian will benefit from this delightful book. But as a guide to the basics of the faith for new disciples it should prove invaluable.

David Strain
Senior Minister, First Presbyterian Church, Jackson, Mississippi

After reading Faith Undaunted, I can't help thinking of the elderly lady's reaction when she heard J. C. Ryle preach: 'He's no Bishop. I could understand every word!' And so…Donald Macleod blesses us with his vintage clarity in this stirring, searching, sustaining apology for 'Apostles' Creed' faith.

Dale Ralph Davis
Respected Author and Old Testament Scholar
