DESCRIPTION

We live in a bad news world filled with relentlessly disturbing headlines – war and crime, poverty and pandemics, racism and oppression, mass murder and disaster. And we all experience discouragement in our personal lives as well – temptation and regret, pain and suffering, failure and disappointment, decline and death. Though the world is overflowing with bad news, the message of Jesus is bigger and brighter than all of it, giving us hope in the midst of every negative experience of our lives. It's always good news!

AUTHOR

Scott Lothery (MDiv, DMin) has been a church planter, solo pastor of a small church, senior pastor of a medium sized church, executive pastor of a large church, and lead pastor of a multi–site mega church. In every ministry, he has emphasized the Gospel of Jesus as the power of God that nourishes the Christian life.

ENDORSEMENTS

An incredibly striking book, which revealed to me how I had imperceptibly 'slipped' into wrong thinking about sin, suffering, the Lordship of Jesus, God's love and my expectations of Christian discipleship. I wholeheartedly recommend it as a spring clean to make sure you are living and breathing the right gospel.

Rico Tice
Evangelist; Co–founder of Christianity Explored Ministries

We all need to hear more good news – and that's why you'll want to keep Scott Lothery's book close at hand. It will remind you of the greatest good news the world has ever heard: the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Kristen Wetherell
Author of 'Humble Moms', 'Fight Your Fears' and co–author of 'Hope When It Hurts'

This little book engagingly describes the meaning of the gospel of Jesus as found in the Bible and helps us to come to a fuller, richer understanding of it. The book ends with a provocative, yet persuasive, discussion on why using the word "love" may not be the best way to summarise the gospel.

Ajith Fernando
Teaching Director, Youth for Christ, Sri Lanka

By summarizing the gospel with the Bible's orderly emphasis of Lord–Sin–Savior–Faith and contextualizing it with personal and powerful examples and analogies, this book shepherds the Christian toward daily spiritual health.

Edward W. Klink III
Senior Pastor, Hope Evangelical Free Church, Roscoe, Illinois and Professor, Trinity Evangelical Divinity School, Deerfield, Illinois
