DESCRIPTION

Bold, Practical, and Deeply Needed – A Field Guide for Everyday Believers

Unmute is a concise, powerful guide for believers who want to share their faith with clarity and confidence in a culture that's increasingly distant from Christianity. Through real stories, biblical insight, and practical tools, Joshua Dool equips everyday Christians to overcome fear, recognize their missional moment, and open their mouths with boldness and love. This book reminds us that evangelism isn't for experts—it's for all of us.

You will learn how to:

- Understand what evangelism truly is
- Start meaningful spiritual conversations
- Share the gospel clearly and confidently
- Overcome the fears that keep you silent

AUTHOR

Joshua Dool is a church planter pastoring a rapidly growing church in post-Christian Canada. For over a decade he's trained believers in evangelism, led international mission teams, and engaged people of diverse worldviews in gospel conversations.

ENDORSEMENTS

This isn't another guilt-trip or technique factory; it's a field guide for real conversations with real people in a world that's forgotten how to talk about God.

Peyton Jones
Author, 'Church Plantology' and 'Discipology'

... not only delivers a compelling explanation of the gospel but also equips you with practical tools to introduce people, from various worldviews, to Jesus.

Andy Steiger
President, Apologetics Canada

Concise, compelling, and cross-centered, this book hands reluctant believers the courage and script to speak today.

Scott Thomas
