DESCRIPTION

Discover the Grand Story of God's Saving Promise

J. V. Fesko traces the covenant of grace from Eden to eternity, revealing how Scripture's grand narrative centers on Christ and God's redeeming purposes for his people. Combining biblical exegesis, historical theology, and doctrinal reflection, this volume explores the unity of God's saving work across redemptive history and the beauty of communion with the triune God. Part of the Divine Covenants series, it stands alongside Adam and the Covenant of Works and The Trinity and the Covenant of Redemption.

Inside you'll discover:

- The covenant of grace across Scripture
- Key theological debates and covenant traditions
- Christ's role in redemption and covenant communion

AUTHOR

J. V. Fesko is Harriet Barbour Professor of Systematic and Historical Theology at Reformed Theological Seminary in Jackson, Mississippi

ENDORSEMENTS

Covenant theology wonderfully demonstrates why biblical and systematic theology are collaborative rather than competitive. I know few people who have spent more time studying and writing on covenant theology than John Fesko, making this a worthy final installation in a larger project.

Ryan M. McGraw
Morton H. Smith Professor of Systematic Theology, Greenville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Greenville, South Carolina

This capstone to Fesko's trilogy masterfully traces the covenant of grace from its roots in history through exegesis and systematics, showing how it's all about the one mediator who secures our salvation by grace alone. As for critiquing 1689 Federalism, Fesko offers an invaluable service to us, even his baptistic friends, by offering sober push back to baptistic studies in conflict with the reformed tradition.
