A Neglected Grace

Family Worship in the Christian Home

Jason Helopoulos

RELEASE DATE 20 MARCH 2014

RELATED TITLES

DESCRIPTION

MARKETING POINTS

Draws from Scripture and tested experience

Wise and practical help for how to start family worship

AUTHOR

Jason Helopoulos is Senior Pastor at University Reformed Church in East Lansing, Michigan, and a guest blogger at The Gospel Coalition. He and his wife, Leah, are parents of two young children, Gracen and Ethan.

ENDORSEMENTS

"I know firsthand that he writes as one who takes seriously all the challenges and all the opportunities fleshed out in this excellent book. The 'neglected grace' of family worship is not neglected in his home."

Kevin DeYoung
Senior Pastor, Christ Covenant Church, Matthews, North Carolina

This excellent little paperback is well titled... Helopolous strikes the right note- Just Do It- while giving enough practical hints to make worship enjoyable as well as profitable.

The Monthly Record
Magazine of the Free Church of Scotland

"If you are looking for a good, helpful introduction to family worship, one that provides both a biblical basis for family worship as well as guidance on how to practice it in real life, then look no further. It is my hope that Jason Helopoulos' book contributes to the widespread recovery of the "neglected grace" of family worship."

Donald S Whitney
Professor of Biblical Spirituality, The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky

"In A Neglected Grace, Jason lays out a biblical defense of family worship and provides plenty of wise and practical help for how to get started."

C J Mahaney
Senior Pastor, Sovereign Grace Church of Louisville, Louisville, Kentucky

TECHNICAL DETAILS

TRADE PAPERBACK
128 Pages

ISBN 9781781912034
BISAC REL012030
PRICE £8.99 $12.99