Helpful Truth in Past Places

The Puritan Practice of Biblical Counseling

Mark A. Deckard

RELEASE DATE 20 JANUARY 2010

RELATED TITLES

MARKETING POINTS

Draws on seven Puritan classics

Deals with concepts such as fear, depression, anxiety - and more

For counselors, pastors, and anyone with an interest

AUTHOR

Mark A Deckard serves as Director of Biblical Counseling Training, a ministry of Christian Counseling Associates. He has been involved in leadership and administrative roles with CCA and with the Prison Ministry in York.

ENDORSEMENTS

This book is a goldmine for anyone involved in helping hurting people. We are invited to gain wisdom - a deeper understanding of people & of how God's grace can change and strengthen them through 'the sufferings of this present time'.

Edward Donnelly
(1943 – 2023) Principal, Reformed Theological College, Belfast, Northern Ireland

Our arrogance leads us to believe that the past has nothing to offer by way of insight and comfort for our present struggles. Mark Deckard guides us through the rich pastoral theology of Puritan preacher/theologians such as Burroughs, Edwards, Brooks, Owen, Bridges, and others on emotions, contentment, sin, depression, and more. I enthusiastically recommend this book to seminarians, counselors, theologians, and interested laypeople.

Tremper Longman

"...it combines the timeless truth of historical theology with solid application for life and ministry today."

Biblical Counselling Coalition

""Much is to be learned from them and Mark Deckard guides us in a most helpful fashion by drawing on seven of these 'physicians of the soul'. He directs us to the relevance of the subject by choosing chapter titles that remind us how up-to-date these pastoral concerns are...It should certainly encourage us to read the Puritans more extensively in these practical areas of Christian living."

Evangelical Times

TECHNICAL DETAILS

LARGE TRADE PAPERBACK
208 Pages

ISBN 9781845505455
BISAC REL050000
PRICE £11.99 $19.99