DESCRIPTION

It is crucial to know who we are. The world loves to label us – by our gender, by our ethnicity, by our job – but as Christians our identity is not in those labels. We are 'in Christ'. We are united to him by faith. Knowing who we are in Christ gives us the security to be able worship him and to live for him. This devotional digs into what that means, how it impacts our lives, and why it matters most who God says we are.

AUTHOR

Jean Gaffin (1936–2019), home maker and Christian school business manager, taught Bible studies and spoke at women's conferences for many years. She was married to Richard Gaffin, Jr, with two sons and a daughter who predeceased her, and nine grandchildren.

ENDORSEMENTS

With biblical wisdom coupled with an endearing modesty and practicality it takes us to the heart of living the Christian life. And, truth to tell, Who He Says I Am is simply a transcript of the Christ–reflecting life Jean Gaffin herself lived, as a woman who knew where her true identity was found.

Chancellor's Professor of Systematic Theology, Reformed Theological Seminary

One of the hardest thing about reading this book prior to publication is that I cannot rush out and buy multiple copies for friends. But this is exactly what I will do when Jean Gaffin's wonderful tribute to our life in Christ — with vivid reminders of her life in Christ— arrives in print. Christian Focus has done the church a great service in presenting a book so full of Scripture, so full of doctrine, and all so accessible for readers of all ages and study groups alike. A true treasure!

Chad Van Dixhoorn
Professor of Church History and Director of the Craig Center, Westminster Theological Seminary, Glenside, Pennsylvania

I never knew Jean Gaffin personally. I live thousands of miles away from her on the other side of the world, but I knew her reputation. She was a woman who loved the word of God, and she led other women in her church and elsewhere to delight in it too. This book is evidence of her love for Christ and the Scriptures.

Keri Folmar
Author, Delighting in the Word Bible Study series and 'The Good Portion: Scripture' and co–host of Priscilla Talk

... an accessible and insightful summary of Scriptural teaching that elevates the understanding, stirs the heart and encourages deeper study of and greater fidelity to God's Word. Ideal for self–study, it is also an excellent guide for small groups and Bible studies.
