AUTHOR

Bradley G. Green teaches theology at Union University in Jackson, Tennessee. He is the author of several books. Brad and his wife Dianne have three children—Caleb, Daniel, and Victoria. Brad and Dianne also helped co-found Augustine School, a Christian liberal arts school in Jackson, Tennessee.

ENDORSEMENTS

Brad tells the reader not only of the great man himself, but how to read his well-known books and to cherish them. The difficult issues are not shirked, covering everything between classical theism and donatism. The ideal start-up companion.

Paul Helm

Emeritus Professor of the History and Philosophy of Religion, King's College, London

... a well-researched, thoughtful, and straightforward introductory guide to the main elements in Augustine's mind and writings, from which any student of historical theology can profit. I will be urging my students to utilize it.

Nick Needham

Lecturer in Church History, Highland Theological College, Dingwall, Scotland

This book is a valuable introduction to Augustine as a coherent and persuasive theologian. For those who want to know where he stood on the great themes of Christian truth, this is an excellent place to begin.

Gerald Bray

Research Professor, Beeson Divinity School at Samford University, Birmingham, Alabama
