Olaudah Equiano: A Man of Many Names

Emily J. Maurits

RELEASE DATE 09 SEPTEMBER 2022

DESCRIPTION

Kidnapped into slavery when he was ten, Oladuah was forced to work for others. He grew up and obtained his freedom. He claimed back his name in order to write his own memoir as part of the fight against slavery. Oladuah Equiano may have been a child who lost everything, even his name – but he came to know the joy of forgiveness in Christ, and the true freedom that comes with trusting in Jesus' name

MARKETING POINTS

Former slave who wrote his memoir

Part of the campaign against slavery

Includes timeline and Thinking Further questions

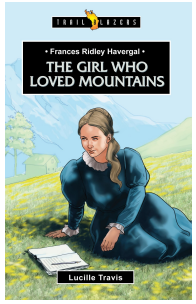

AUTHOR

Emily J. Maurits is an Australian blogger and writer. She is the author of the memoir 'Two Sisters and a Brain Tumour' and the founder of Called to Watch, a website supporting those whose loved ones have chronic illnesses.

ENDORSEMENTS

RELATED TITLES

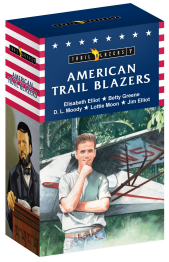

9781781915226
£5.99 $8.99

9781527105294
£5.99 $8.99

9781527105232
£24.99 $39.99

TECHNICAL DETAILS

POCKET PAPERBACK
144 Pages
Reading Age: 9–14

ISBN 9781527108769
BISAC JNF007080
PRICE £6.99 $9.99