DESCRIPTION

- Book number 71 in Trail Blazer series
- Cricket star who became missionary to China
- Great for readers aged 9–11

In Victorian England, cricket champion C.T. Studd shocked society by giving away his fortune to become a missionary. Rather than live in luxury, he chose to face cannibals, disease, and danger in China, India, and Africa. With his brave wife Priscilla by his side, C.T.'s incredible adventures and unwavering faith would transform countless lives across three continents. His amazing true story shows how one person's complete dedication to Jesus can change the world.

This action–packed biography shows what can happen when someone decides to put their whole life into serving Jesus, no matter what it costs them. If you like stories about real–life heroes, daring adventures, and people who changed the world, you won't be able to put this book down!

Perfect for readers who love true stories of courage, faith, and adventure in far–off places.
