DESCRIPTION

When Life Falls Apart, Where Do You Turn for Answers?

Pastor Gabriel Fluhrer tackles the most personal question we all face: Why do I suffer? Drawing from twenty years of ministry experience, he demonstrates why biblical answers to depression, illness, abuse, and loss surpass every other worldview. Through compelling real-life stories and solid theology, readers discover that suffering can become a pathway to deeper joy.

- Deeply practical guide
- Includes real-life stories of faith in suffering
- Draws on 20 years of pastoral experience

This book doesn't promise quick fixes or prosperity theology. Instead, it offers something far better: the biblical truth that our trials have meaning, our God is good, and our suffering will end. Perfect for anyone seeking genuine hope in life's darkest moments.

AUTHOR

Gabriel N.E. Fluhrer (Ph.D., Westminster Theological Seminary) is the senior minister of the historic First Presbyterian Church of Chattanooga, Tennessee. Prior to coming to Chattanooga, Dr. Fluhrer served churches in South Carolina, Mississippi, and North Carolina. He is also adjunct professor of systematic theology at Reformed Theological Seminary in Atlanta and adjunct professor of apologetics at Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia.

ENDORSEMENTS

Gabe Fluhrer has provided readers with a timely resource that is engaging, clear, and pastoral. Whether you are personally dealing with suffering and evil or are walking along someone who is, Fluhrer will help you to ask the right questions and then point you to biblical answers.

Guy Prentiss Waters
James M. Baird, Jr. Professor of New Testament and Academic Dean, Reformed Theological Seminary, Jackson, Mississippi

Dr. Fluhrer has one of the sharpest minds I have encountered, but in this book, he is sitting next to you as a friend and counsellor. You can hear him speak too as he takes to the Scripture and the gospel that brings hope and joy amidst pain and suffering. A triumph.
