Life Lines

Sane Meditations for a mad world

Geraint Fielder

RELEASE DATE 20 JANUARY 2005

RELATED TITLES

AUTHOR

Geraint Fielder (1935-2016) was an experienced broadcaster on Radio Wales, Radio 2 and Radio 4. He was also a missionary and former minister at Highfields Church in Cardiff.

ENDORSEMENTS

I first came across Geraint Fielder's radio broadcasts in the comfort of my kitchen listening to Radio 4's 'Prayer for the Day'. Normally the programme either provides a timely thought to start the day or provokes me to want to throw my teacup at the radio. At first I only half-listened but gradually my attention was arrested (there is no other suitable word) by what the broadcaster had to say. This was the only week that I can remember setting my alarm to make sure that I caught it next day. The broadcaster was Geraint Fielder and although the programme was only a few minutes long it was breathtaking what he could achieve in such a short time. Afterwards other items on religious broadcasting slots became colourless and shallow by comparison. Geraint has a talent, and he uses it well. When you read on you will know exactly what I mean.

Ian Thompson
VP for Sales, Presbyterian & Reformed Publishing

TECHNICAL DETAILS

LARGE TRADE PAPERBACK
224 Pages

ISBN 9781845500290
BISAC REL012020
PRICE £7.99 $14.99