Word to the World

William Barker

RELEASE DATE 20 SEPTEMBER 2005

RELATED TITLES

DESCRIPTION

AUTHOR

William Barker is Professor of Church History, Emeritus at Westminster Theological Seminary (Philadelphia). He remains Adjunct Professor of Church History at Covenant Theological Seminary, St Louis, Missouri. He was editor of the Presbyterian Journal and has contributed to the Dictionary of Christianity in America.

ENDORSEMENTS

The publication of Word to the World is a cause for rejoicing. The book is marked by both variety and constancy. Running through all this variety, though, are certain constants: good writing; a combination of forthrightness and fairness; prudence and much wise counsel; a reverent, even worshipful, tone; and above all, the fruitfulness of a mind and heart devoted to the Bible. Indeed, Will Barker's attitude toward and use of the Bible in this collection makes one think of the good old biblical name that we used to use for the Word of God-the Holy Scriptures (2 Tim 3:15).

Robert A. Peterson
Theologian, editor, and co–author, 'Jesus In Prophecy: How Christ's Life Fulfills Biblical Predictions'

Dr. Barker is a first-rate church historian, and his considerable theological skills are on open display in this welcome collection of his writings. His generous spirit, powerful mind and pastoral heart are productive of theological discourse that is a model, in both tone and content, for reformed ministers and scholars as we engage with a hostile postmodern culture.

Ligon Duncan
Chancellor and CEO, Reformed Theological Seminary

TECHNICAL DETAILS

LARGE TRADE PAPERBACK
320 Pages

ISBN 9781845500504
BISAC REL067000
PRICE £11.99 $19.99