ENDORSEMENTS

"The author's ability to move fluidly between the promises and prophecies of Isaiah and their New Testament fulfilment makes this an enlightening and practical book. Clearly Stuart Sacks is thrilled to introduce to us his Messiah, and to encourage us all, Jew and Gentile alike, to know him..."

John Stuart Ross
Minister; missionary; former part-time lecturer in Homiletics and Liturgy, Edinburgh Theological Seminary, Scotland

... a much needed antidote to man-centredness and truimphalism; provided in the best possible way- looking at Jesus the servant

Evangelicals Now

"Stuart Sacks brings the prophet Isaiah and his message to our day. It is a message the church needs to hear."

R. C. Sproul
(1939 – 2017) Founder & Chairman of Ligonier Ministries, Orlando, Florida

"In thirteen short, readable chapters Sacks provides insight into the nature and work of Jesus as Israel's and our Messiah and offers encouragement for those who want to know him and be like him. It would be difficult for anyone to read this book and not be helped by it."

James Montgomery Boice
Late pastor of Tenth Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia
